ADrive and Inky Announce Technology Partnership

Inky and ADrive announce a technology partnership that integrates the ADrive Cloud with the Inky client.

Emeryville, CA and Bethesda, MD (PRWEB) April 10, 2014 -- Today, Inky and ADrive announced a technology partnership enabling Inky users to save and open files in their ADrive cloud storage account using the Inky email client. ADrive will provide all Inky users with 50GB of free ADrive cloud storage.

Fully integrated with the Inky email client, the ADrive cloud storage account allows Inky mail senders to attach files that recipients can easily retrieve. By partnering with the Inky client, ADrive users will be able to consolidate multiple email accounts in an easy to use and intelligent email client fully integrated with the ADrive cloud storage.

Craig Stelmach, the COO of ADrive states, "We are very excited for the Inky and ADrive partnership. Allowing our users the ability to save files directly to the ADrive cloud from a novel and intelligent email client will ensure that email attachments are properly and securely stored in the ADrive cloud. Users will now be able to save attachments from any email received in the Inky client to the ADrive cloud and access those files anywhere, at any time, on any device."

About Inky

Designed and built by the industry experts at Arcode, the Inky email client is engineered from the ground up to be the smart, simple, safe way to read and respond to all email accounts. Inky has free Mac and Windows desktop versions available for download at http://inky.com.

Dave Baggett, Founder of Arcode, the company that created Inky, said, "We're excited that our partnership with ADrive allows us to offer Inky users an industry-leading 50GB of free cloud-based storage, seamlessly integrated into Inky's smart, simple, and safe email experience."
